

Postgraduate course - scholarships available - open to all aspiring professionals in the rural and agricultural economy

An opportunity is now in place which allows you to gain a Harper Adams postgraduate qualification by studying online and through work-related projects and activities.

This course is ideal for established practitioners and recent graduates alike.

- Learn and earn - the course is 100% online and work based with no attendance requirement.
- Study through Harper Adams without leaving your current job-role.
- Undertake a course where distance is no barrier.
- Investigate your professional context and develop your own practice whilst gaining a recognised postgraduate award.
- Study topics relevant to you and your work.
- Earn a nationally recognised Postgraduate Certificate in one year - with the option to progress to an Master's award

Details of the course are available at: <http://tiny.cc/mw1o8>

Frequently asked questions are available here: <http://tiny.cc/a9qkq>

The course will enable students to explore current issues related to their own job role, to future-gaze and to raise their awareness of the challenges and influences that they and their organisation are likely to encounter. The course also helps students to develop skills in practice based research and inquiry. There are no exams and the creation of assessment work is very much tied in to the course itself.

* This September there is a one-off opportunity to gain funding support from a REEDNet scholarship.****

To find out more about this programme and for a discussion about the possibilities for funding for September 2010 please contact Lydia Arnold, Course Coordinator by email larnold@harper-adams.ac.uk or telephone 01952 815277 (office) / 07507 528786 (mobile).